Harvesting of Crops Over 50 Percent Done

... Some Say Yield 'Best Ever'

Harvest for grain farmers in the area was 50 percent done by Sunday night and if the weather holds, by the time readers get this newspaper over half of this year's crop will be in the bin, elevator—or in train cars on the way to international markets. Elevator deliveries were temporarily suspended for grain trucks at Richardson Pioneer, manager Darrell Huber told The News on Friday, September 13 because an expected train did not show up on Thursday, September 12.

“We're plugged up” he added as one million bushels of grain comprised mainly of wheat, canola and peas had filled up the giant elevator. That can happen sometimes at harvest, he points out. Huber said they expected a train very soon (maybe over the weekend) to take a third of the million bushels to market and likely grain deliveries for farmers to the terminal would have resumed by Monday or Tuesday. Of the deliveries now coming into the grain terminal 95 percent is from this year's crop.

• WHEAT
There has been a wide range of yield reported by farmers with wheat averaging between 35 and 75 bushels per acre. Normal is approximately 50 bushels per acre. Hard red spring wheat was selling for approximately $6 per bushel on Friday.
• CANOLA
Meanwhile some canola crops being now harvested are reaching up to 50 bushels per acre and that's “very good” says the Richardson Pioneer manager. The average for that crop is 40 bushels per acre. Canola was selling for approximately $10.60 per bushel on September 13. Last year at this time the price was $15.

• PEAS
Peas, though not as large a crop in this area as wheat and canola, were yielding approximately 50 bushels per acre. Peas were selling for $6.50 per bushel. Huber added that some long term farmers have describes the weapons he uses for combating the digital world. The News editor after reading his book this summer was in contact with the author who agreed to an interview.

Ahearn is a privacy expert and digital manipulator as well as the author of How to Disappear and The Digital Hit Man. His book How to Disappear describes how someone can: erase their digital footprint, leave false trails, and vanish without a trace. Ahearn's other book How to Disappear
